An Eventful Night.

Has any of us, I wonder, a distinctly dual nature—the one dispassionate and just, the other unreasoning and impetuous? Or in some remote and unguessed niche of our souls does there sit enthroned a small and potent demon, which sometimes breaks restraint and lets loose among our better senses the hounds of anarchy to deafen conscience with their yells and hunt our dearest loves to the bitter death?

I can moralize and marvel now, since all is over and done! I can marvel if I were possessed by some unguessed and puissant spirit not my own, in one melancholy episode of my life; or if some uncanny and unworthier duality of my being had quickened to volition within me. For certainly what I had been before and what I have been since, I was not in that deplorable time which I shudder to recall.

I was not ill, nor harassed, nor despondent; I was strong of body, my mind was content, my heart at rest, when I was suddenly impelled to the maddening belief that I was wronged as man had never been wronged before, and when every impulse of soul and sense seemed goading me on for vengeance and human blood.

That particular evening I was sitting alone in the yet unlighted library of my somewhat isolated suburban residence.

Outside was a deliciously fresh and balmy dusk—a serene and beguiling hiatus between the setting of an unclouded sun and the rising of a stormy moon! The winds were still; the great maples were motionless; there were no sounds save those of occasional hoofs and wheels along the uneven and ungraded highway, or those of the uneasy river complaining with the burden of the prolonged Spring rains. Nothing was visible but the formless shadows where all was shade—nothing more but the dim gleam of the scented lilac bloom, and of one narrow beam of light which issued from a window of the music-room at the far end of the long and low veranda.

As I sat there gazing dreamily out into the balmy dusk and listening drowsily to the grumbling of the restive river—somebody began softly intoning some fanciful operatic air, and then presently an exquisite voice aroused the hushed gloaming with strain after strain of happy melody.

With a sense of infinite peace, of serenest delight, I leaned back in my luxurious chair and closed my contented eyes. My Lyre was singing—my wife—the beautiful songstress I had lured from an anticipated carreer of conquest and splendor, and caged in the calmer and prosier stronghold of my wedded affections.

I had never wondered if Lyrie might some time regret her marriage with a man neither particularly young nor especially attractive; I had never questioned if she might some time regret the love for which she had renounced a more dazzling life; I loved her, and she was mine. And in the yet undiminished charm of our loving, I had never cared to speculate of what might be—of what might have been in a time of which I had no knowledge; of what might be if for her the charm were dissolved in the alchemy of latent ambitions or undivined illusions.

I distrusted nothing. I apprehended nothing; my mind was content and my heart at rest, as in the dreamy dusk I leaned luxuriously back in my library chair and serenely listened to the exquisite voice singing:

"A passionate ballad gallant and gay,
A mental song like a trumpet call!
Singing of Death and Honor which cannot die!"

But as I listened the song ceased—ceased abruptly with a sharp dissonance and with a little jarfile, as if her fingers had come down with a startled crash upon the resplendent keys of the piano.

Then all was silent. And in the midst of the silence, with a flash and a shock, the unguessed demon unlashed the turbulent jealousies and maddening doubts; or the unreasoning duality of my being quickened to a volition which belied my sober senses. At the instant I was assailed by neither a crazy suspicion nor a morbid premonition but by a vivid and impellent conviction that some concealed and gruesome thing was about to be disclosed to me.

"Something startled her from her singing, and she is not one to be startled by what threatens no evil," whispered the voice which was so unlike my own. "Some person has sulked through the garden and through the veranda casements, and so, unseen and unheard, has gained her presence. She has been too suddenly confronted by some phantom from her past, by the ghost of some ill starred thing which she had deemed forever buried from her sight. And perhaps even now she is bewailing what might have been and planning for what might be."

Such was the summary of those sudden and inexplicable convictions. I had no sense of hesitancy or scruple; and I was possessed by the deliberate and sanguinary cunning of a crafty maniac.

I neither sighed nor muttered execrations. But I smiled grimly as I arose from my chair and with a stealthy tread walked from the library and down the yet unlighted corridor toward the music-room.

The door was ajar, and I felt not the minutest surprise as I peered into the apartment and beheld the confirmatory scene which was being enacted there.

There indeed was an intruder—a tall man cloaked like a brigand of romance—a handsome man, whose broad rakish hat flared back from a countenance impressively pallid and haggard! His arms were about my Lyrie, her golden head dropped against his breast and she was weeping bitterly.

"I could not believe you would remain from me so long if you were among the living," she was sobbing just audibly. "Can nothing be done? Can we not plan something that I may be near you?—that you may come to me sometimes?"

"You were happier to believe me no longer among the living. You will be happier, too, if we shall meet again no more," the man answered with some fierce passion kindling in his haggard black eyes.

He lifted her dropping face, he kissed the beautiful brows, he unloosed her pleading hands—and then he turned swiftly away.

As he vanished through the opened casement of the veranda, she glanced up and perceived me advancing toward her.

With the glance her great blue eyes dilated and darkened with unmistakable terror. Perhaps my accusing gaze affrighted her and she feared, she knew not what; for with a scared little cry she shrank back and hid her paling face in both her trembling hands.

But I did not heed her! Any emotion of hers—whether of fear or remorse or shame—was nothing to me then. I was intent only in the pursuit of a cloaked figure vanishing outside—a flying shadow where all was shade. I had been impelled to the belief that I was wronged as man was never wronged before; but I had no upbraiding just then for her—my vengenance was meant for him for whom she had cared before I met and loved her, perchance, and for whom she still cared!

The stormy moon was just visible among the thickening clouds; the wind was beginning to sigh among the great maples; the gumbling of the river sounded nearer and more near, so I hastened onward, hearing now and then the uncertain thud of reckless footsteps, or seeing a rakish hat looming like a black silhouette against a gleam of white moonshine.

On and on I hastened in stealthy pursuit, through the extensive grounds, across a wooded inclosure of knolls and hollows, and so emerged upon an abandoned road—a deeply excavated curve which somewhere intersected the highway.

The cloaked figure with the rakish hat had become altogether invisible, but of his propinquity I was certain. For a saddled horse was nibbling the lush swampy grasses in a hollow down the roadway, and there were vaguely suggestive rustlings among the vines and elders between me and the river, which just there widened to a sullen and almost bankless current.

"The clump of elders is his last covert," I thought, grimly, as I descended into the curving roadway and stalked toward the marshy crescent of ground which flanked the river.

And he was there, indeed; but not erect and hostile and defiant. He lay prone upon the earth, moveless, as if he had composed himself for slumber, and totally unaware that a Cain had tracked him to his retreat.

What denunciations I uttered I do not know; I only know that I clutched his brigandish cloak, that I dragged him to an upright posture, and that some murderous thing glittered in my determined grip.

"A man with broken bones and emptied veins is not likely to defend himself," I was at length conscious he had said in strangely strengthless tones.

And as I glared upon him I perceived that his garments were drenched with blood, and that one stout foot dangled uselessly beneath his cloak.

"I stumbled over the brink of the excavated roadway, and some splintered rail has forestalled your bullet," he explained with a sort of satiric humor as I involuntarily lowered the murderous thing which menaced him.

At this juncture there was an appalling crash like the booming of thunder, and then a rumbling and roaring like an onset of artillery.

Instinctively I turned my gaze towards the neighboring hills. I knew what had happened; burdened with the prolonged Spring rains, the restive river had rent assunder some fettering dam above, and the mighty floods were already deluging the land.

In another half hour the roadway would be an impassable torrent, the marshy crescent would be a plunging sea, and my helpless arch-enemy must persish if nothing intervened to spare him.

I would leave him to his doom, assuredly! I should be an idiot to do otherwise!

And then with a shock and a flash, the demon, the lunacy, the unworthier duality, or whatever it might have been, was extinguished within me. Perhaps I had been an idiot already, I began to reflect! If my girlish bride had loved him in a time of which I had no knowledge, even if she still loved him, even if she had meditated wrong to me, I should indeed be idiotic to do ought which would be joy to my foes and grief to them that esteemed me, and an eternal ignomy to myself! I would instead be his deliverer; I would take him back to her, and then I would leave them to themselves; I would have done with them forever, and I would go my way alone!

My reflections, if comprehensive, were of short duration. Already a vast avalanche of seething water was tumbling down the valley, already the rebellious river was rioting over knolls and hollows, and down yonder in the streaming road-bed a riderless horse was whinnying for his wellnigh insensible cavalier.

"Come," I began in my own natural voice, "life is as dear to you as to me, and I shall not leave you to perish here. Arouse your courage a bit; if you can keep the saddle for a half mile, you will be safe."

I had fancied a few moments before that my vehemence and menaces only mystified him; but he understood distinctly enough now.

My task was sufficiently perilous, and accomplished none too soon. We had scarcely gained the elevated ground above the roadway when the watery avalanche thundered down and submerged even the precipitous brink over which he so unluckily stumbled.

He was safe; but of my own safety I had been too incautious. For even as I momently lingered on the brink my footing failed me, the flood smote me, and then I knew no more.

When consciousness was restored to me, I was lying in my own chamber, and my darling was kneeling beside my bed her beautiful beloved face all wan and anguished with a trouble which I knew was for me alone.

"Life was worthless to my poor brother, and you would have given your own that he might live," I heard her murmur.

I needed no more to understand the truth. The night was gone like some weirdly distorted dream; and in the glory and gladness of the dawning, I put an arm about her and drew her to my heart.

"You have never told me about your brother—tell me now," I said.

The explanation was sufficiently lucid. No doubt her brother had been more sinned against than sinning; but all the same he had been condemned for a grievious offense, and he was a fugitive from pursuing justice. For years she had believed him dead, and now I did not marvel she was so startled by the phantom from the past.

And now when all is over and done, my mind content, my heart at rest, I can calmly marvel and moralize upon the chaotic misery of that eventful night! I can wonderingly question if I were possessed by some frenzied spirit not my own, or if some unreasoning and inconsistent duality of my being had been quickened to uncanny volition within me!

Two for a Cent Apiece.

A young editor, bright, poor and punsterous, had won the affections of a rich man's daughter, and they fixed a day for him to call on the father, and on that day he was promptly at the old gentleman's office.

'Good morning, sir,' he said, confidently, but ready to run; 'I have called on you on a matter of—'

'We don't want any advertising today,' interrupted the old gentleman, looking up quickly over his glasses.

'I am not on that business, sir. I came to ask you for your daughter.'

'What do you want with her?'

'Marry her.'

'What for?'

'For better or worse.'

'What does the girl say?'

'She says she will be my wife.'

'Uh! You haven't got a cent in the word, have you?'

'Yes, sir. She gave assent, and if you will do the same, that will make two, and we can buy a postage stamp and write to you for the balance of our salary.'

It was a wretched attempt, but he got the girl.

Hickory, Dickory, Dock.

Weezy was so anxious to help that she made it hard for herself and for the family. She burned her fingers in stirring hot apple sauce for Bridget. She woke up the baby in trying to curl the few hairs on his little bald head. She meddled with mamma's knitting work till she had lost every needle. Papa Haynes laughed at these things; but when Weezy learned to open his writing desk he looked grave.

"This'll never do," said he to mamma. "The child will be tearing my papers next."

So he locked the desk, and hung the key above the tall clock beside it.

"There my young squirrel, you won't reach that in a hurry," he said to himself, kissing his little daughter goodby.

After he was gone mamma stepped into the kitchen to tell Bridget about dinner. Weezy stayed in the sitting-room to sing Sambo to sleep. Every time she rocked back in her small chair she could see the key shinning over the clock. It loooked very much out of place. She wondered why her papa had put it there. She wanted to whistle with it. Oh hum! if she was a little speck of a bird she would fly against and brush it down with her wings. Or if Sambo was only an angel! She danced across the floor, and threw him up as high as she could. Instead of knocking down the key she knocked poor Sambo's stocking yarn head against the wall, and he fell flat upon the top of the clock.

"Lie still, Sambo," cried Weezy, mounting a chair. From the chair she easily climbed to the broad shelf of the desk. There she rested a moment, leaning her chin on the top of the desk and patting Sambo. But she did not take him to her arms, for not far above hung the key. She had set her little heart on getting it.

What do you think the little sprite did next? All by herself she scrambled to the very top of that big desk. Standing on tiptoe she tried to reach over the clock! Even then she was not quite tall enough to grasp the key with her chubby little fingers; but by perching upon Sambo she got it at last.

By the time mamma came back Weezy had opened the desk and cut one of papa's deeds into paper dolls.

Papa was vexed enough at noon when he saw them.

"The loss of that deed will give me a great deal of trouble," said he to mamma. "How did Weezy come by the key of my desk?"

"'Hickory, dickory, dock,
The mouse ran up the clock!'"
answered mamma, laughing.

"Why, why, is it possible!" said papa, turning pale. "I'm thankful she didn't break her neck—our little mouse of a Weezy."—Our Little Ones.

A Chinese Printing Office.

In a San Francisco Chinese printing office the manner of putting a newspaper on the press and printing is very primitive. The editor takes American newspapers to friends, from whom he gets a translation of the matter he needs, and after getting it written in Chinese in a matter satisfactory to him he carefully writes it upon paper chemically prepared. Upon the bed of the press, which is of the style that went out of use with the last century, is a lithograph stone. Upon this the paper is laid until the impression of the characters is left there. A large roller is inked and passed over the stone after it has been dampened with a wet sponge, and nothing remains but to take the impression upon the newspaper to be. The Chinese pressman prints three papers every five minutes, five papers in the same time less than Benjamin Franklin had a record for. The life of a Chinese journalist is a happy one. He is free from care and thought, and allows all the work of the establishment to be done by the pressman. The Chinese compositor has not arrived. The Chinese editor, like the rest of his countrymen is imitative. He does not depend upon his brain for editorials, but translates them from all the contemporaneous American newspapers he can get. There is no humorous department in the Chinese newspaper. The newspaper office has no exchanges scattered over the floor, and in nearly all other things it differs from the American establishment. The editorial room is connected by a ladder with bunks on the loft above, where the managing editor sleeps, and next to it is, invariably, a room where an opium bunk and a layout reside. Evidences of domestic life are about the place, pots, kettles, and dishes taking up about as much room as the press. In all cases, no disposition is shown to elevate the position of the "printer" above his surroundings. If an editor finds that journalism does not pay, he gets a job washing dishes or chopping wood, and he does not think he has descended far, either.

A Dongola Sand Storm.

Midday, everything sweltering and seething in the sun that happens to be exposed to it; everybody bubbling—positively bubbling—with perspiration that happens to be in the shade; thermometer looks as if it would burst—I am afraid to say how high the mercury has risen—in fact, the perspiration pours so into my eyes that I cannot see the small figures. Rock and sand pain the eye by their glare. A black, dense, mud-colored cloud suddenly appears on the horizon at the south, a first a speck, then growing larger and larger, rolling rapidly toward us, now in the distance, now nearer and nearer. Down go tents, and up in the air go straw huts and sheds, while the palm branches wave and nod like the plumes of a hearse caught in a gale, or of the helmet of a knight at a mad gallop.

On, on it rolls, that grimy, fast-riding cloud. Now I cannot see twenty yards ahead of me. The landscape is suddenly enveloped in a black shroud. It bursts upon my hovel. Away, away, away go my half-answered home letters. Who shall catch them? 'Go run after them; quickly, quickly, boy.' I am enveloped in sand. Over goes my only globe lamp—crash! My bottle of seven days' allowance of lime-juice—it totters and capsizes. Down come the spiders, and away bolt the rats—whom I encourage to run about and eat the scorpions, centipedes and white ants. In comes a flock of little crimson-headed bats, and tumble exhausted. In have no doors or windows to be blown in, and there is no fear of a shower of broken glass, such as I have seen during a sirocco on the shores of the Levant. Books, sketches, writing paper, manuscript, linen, lie scattered on the floor, I was going to say, no, the earth—we have no floors here in Ethiopia, buried in a moment in black dust; and over goes my only bottle of cognac, kept for medical purposes.

I put my head out of my window, was I going to write? I mean a square hole in one of the four mud walls forming what is called by courtesy a house. I was blinded as quickly as any inhabitant of the cities of the plain was by the hand of the angel. My eyes were instantly filled with sand, every molecule of which was a burning spark, every particle a scintillation. It wearied me to find my way to my washing-stand, I mean my pile of old wooden cases, on which was balanced my basin, an old biscuit tin, with a classically shaped red amphora in it. Finding it at length I cleanse my eyes, smarting with the fiery dust, and put on a pair of huge green goggles, all glass; these are the only kind that keep out the sand.

Thus armed I looked forth into the moving mountain of sand. A burning blast like unto the breath of a fiery furnace, scorches my face, dries up my skin, stopping every pore. I look into the heavens. The sun was a blood-red ball of fire floating "all in a hot and copper sky," while along the horizon hung a lurid light, such as one sees on the ocean before a storm. In the distance trees, huts and tents were invisible, but near one could just make out the winding, lead-colored Nile, lashed into billows. A dense cloud, which enveloped all seemed raining fire, the atmosphere as if seething, boiling, sputtering. And now waltzing, whirling along the banks came the "devils" (shaytams), as the Arabs call them, the sand spouts—aerial giants—each indulging in a passeul, their high, fantastic figures rearing their heads from earth to heaven. One is reminded of the djin of the "Arabian Knights" let out of the casket in which King Solomon had sealed him up, and rising as a tall column of smoke. How grim and grewsome are they! No doubt the fanciful ghouls, efreets aenii of the Arab folklore drew their origin from such as these. And a destructive element are these rolling spiral sand billows—powerful agents of disintregation, haying a grinding, roughing action on rocks and stones—as they ride the whirlwind, accelerating destruction in a country replete with decaying pedigrees of decay—a country where all changes are not of life, but of destruction—where the characteristics of the scenery around are heaps of rocks breaking into fragments.

And these gusts of sand penetrate everywhere, into clefts and fissures of stones, eating into and sapping their foundations and acting with immense mechanical strength, lifting and rolling rock over rock. There is a wierd and ghastly dance all around, in a dull and lurid glare. Now I am enveloped in a heaving mountain of sand; the air is stifling, my mouth is parched, speech is impossible without wetting the lips, the tongue is swollen. I never before propperly understood "the darkness of the Egyptian plague" which "could be felt." Half an hour—the sand tornado has swept by. I can hear the rush of scared horses, mules, donkeys and cattle, as they rush madly by, having broken loose; the tremendous guttural roar and grunting of camels, the howling of dogs, and the shrill screaching of vultures and kites flying before the gale. All nature groans. Half an hour—the Dongola carnivel of the wild elements of the "Soudan" is over.

Lost in a Squall.

A Small Steam Yacht Swamped in a Minnesota Lake.

A Minneapolis (Minn.) dispatch gives the following particulars of a sad drowning casuality which occurred a few days since at a well-known summer resort: Shortly after 5 o'clock this afternoon a heavy wind and rain storm passed over Lake Minnesota. The small steam yacht Minnie Cook, with ten persons on board, was capsized and every one was drowned. Two bodies have been recovered. The storm is described by eye-witnesses on the larger boats as terrible. The waves were high and rain and hail filled the air. The larger steamers put in to shore with great difficulty and it was impossible for the small craft to live in the terrible sea. Other boats and lives are believed to have been lost. The storm was also severe at White Bear, but no lives are reported lost from there.

Ex-Mayor Rand owns a cottage on the lake and yesterday he organized a small party for a sail. When the squall sprang up, instead of putting in at once like most boats, he tried to cross where the lake is narrow to Breezy Point, where his cottage stands. The boat keeled over and went down without warning not a hundred yards from Breezy Point. Many people from the shore saw the boat when the squal struck her. The full list of drowned is: A. C. Rand and wife; his son Harvey Rand, aged fifteen; his nephew Frank Rand, aged eighteen; his daughter Mary Rand, aged eighteen; J. R. Coykendall and wife and daughter Luella, aged twenty-six; George McDonald, engineer of the boat, aged twenty-seven, and R. C. Hussey.

A special train went out to the lake with friends of the dead as soon as the news arrived. Ten steamers began dragging for bodies. Mr. Rand owned a large property in Minneapolis, and represented some millions of Boston capital invested here. The Tribune here will appear in mourning to-morrow. The boat was old and known to be dangerous. Mr. Rand was born in Boston in 1834, and went to Buffalo when young; he was educated there, and married Oline Johnson of that place. He was in the oil business in Pennsylvania and afterward in New York as a manufacturer of gas out of oil; he then became a banker in Aurora, Ill., and came to Minneapolis in 1874. He has served as mayor of that city three terms and was president of numerous companies, Mr. Coykendall being his son-in-law. Seven deaths are virtually in one family. Two married sons survive.

Not Quite Ready.

A negro and his family living on the Decatur division of the Louisville & Nashville railroad recently attempted one of the most sensational swindles of the day. There are ten children in the family, and the husband and wife find it hard work to feed so many mouths. At a family council it was finally decided that one of the children should sit down on the railroad track and be run over by a passenger train. The parents would then sue the company for damages, with which the remaining youngsters could be fed, clothed and educated. One of the boys was so much struck with the project that he volunteered to sacrifice himself for the good of the others. Shortly before the train was due he took his place on the track and waited. The train came thundering along. The little chap held the fort. He was true grit until the engine got within a few feet of him, when he gave an unearthly yell, and with a bound into mid-air made tracks. The authorities invested the matter and the above facts all came out.

A SAFE PLACE.

A prominent citizen of Austin has a hopeful son, who is a student of a university. A few days ago the distressed parent said to an intimate friend:

'I don't know what to do to keep my money safe. Since my son Tom has been attending the law lectures at the University of Texas he gets away with it every time. I'll have to get a burglar-proof safe and sit on it with a shot gun.'

'I'll tell you what to do,' replied the intimate friend; 'put the money in one of his law books. He will never find it there. I know how much studying those students do.'—Sittings.

PRESIDENT Cleveland is said to be as successful a fisherman as an executive. A flannel shirt, a slouch hat and top boots form his costume and mud and water seem to effect him as little as spoilsmen.

THE Democratic State Convention of Pennsylvania to nominate a candidate for state treasurer met at Harrisburg yesterday. The result of the convention, of which no certain news reached here in time for this week's JOURNAL, will be published in next week's paper.

THE Inter-State Picnic Exhibition of the Patrons of Husbandry of the Middle States, at Williams' Grove, Cumberland Co., Pa., will begin next Monday, August 31st and continue until Monday following, Sept. 7th. We hereby acknowledge the receipt of an invitation to attend.

THE Democratic State Convention of Ohio last Thursday renominated Gov. Hoadly for Governor and John G. Warwick for Lieutenant Governor, by acclamation. The rules passed by the convention are creditable to the party and the Democracy of the Buck eye state seems to be well united and confident of success.

ACCORDING to the new law, prohibiting the employment of children under fourteen years of age in coal mines, nearly 6000 boys have so far been discharged in the state. Their work in the mines was to sort the slate from the broken coal. The vacancies are mostly filled by Poles and Hungarians, the right sort of fellows too, for they are used to boys' wages.

THE "Buffalo Evening Telegraph" the penny paper which played such a conspicuous roll in last summer's campaign by dishing up unsavory scandals about the private life of President Cleveland, was overtaken by the avenging Nemesis and suspended its publications. "The Buffalo Democrat" in commenting on the matter says that the meanness and littleness which pervaded the colums of the "Telegraph" were the immediate cause of its ruin. The "Evening News" Cleveland's organ, is now issued from its office. This should be a warning to all newspapers who are fostering the idea that abusive scandals will increase their circulation or benefit their standing.

Vilas Inquiring Into Things.

From the Phila. Times.

WASHINGTON, August, 23.—When Postmaster General Vilas went Wset last week he took occasion to talk civil service reform to some of his employes. Soon after leaving the city on the Baltimore and Ohio Road he donned a long linen duster and took a seat in the mail car, where several men were at work. He made himself acquainted in a few pleasant words and then proceeded to ask a multitude of questions about the details of the work. He rode for many miles in this way and before leaving the car told the clerks that they might consider their tenure of office secure so long as they did their work and did not meddle offensively in politics. This class of the government service, with four or five thousand clerks, does not come under the civil service law, but has a civil service of its own, founded on a knowledge of the work and ability to perform it, clerks being appointed for a probationary term of six months. After his visit to the pestal car Mr. Vilas told a gentleman with him that he considered the railway mail service to be one of the best conducted departments under the government.

ALL the iron interests over the country are in much better shape than they were this time last year.

THE Philadelphia Times has this to say in defense of the mischievous small boy, who would be pronounced a criminal for a small offense by some of the more severe and rash people:

The Crimes of Small Boys.

The action of Judge Patterson, of Lancaster, in dismissing indictments against two boys, only eight and ten years of age respectively, is deserving of the highest commendation. One was charged with taking a box of licorice balls from a store and the other had in some way trespassed upon some property belonging to the railway at Bird-in-Hand. The Judge ordered that a nolle prosequi be issued in each case against the protest of the District Attorney.

There has been a marked and general tendency of late years to prosecute children for offenses of the gravity of which they can have no adequate idea. In some cases they may represent a precocity for crime, but even then they do not and cannot understand at their tender years the seriousness of the offenses charged against them. But in the majority of instances such incursions represent nothing more serious than the mischief inherent in every boy.

In any event prosecution and conviction are almost certain to make criminals of the victims. As a rule, parents may be trusted to correct any tendencies to malicious mischief if the officers of the law will direct their attention to the matter, while the natural childish fear of a constable or a policeman may be depended upon, as a rule, to keep boys of such years in restraint. If Judge Patterson's example were more generally followed it cannot be doubted that many young persons would be kept out of crime and made useful to themselves and society.

Miscellaneous News.

Snyder County's New Jail.

SELINSGROVE, Pa., August 22.—The Snyder County Commissioners are now busily engaged in selecting a site for the proposed new county jail to be located at Middleburg, the county seat.

The Ohio Republican Ticket Complete.

COLUMBUS, August 20.—The Republican State central committee met today and added to their ticket the name of J. W. Spear, of Trumbull county, as nominee for the vacant Supreme Judgeship.

Jacob Zillius, an enterprising stonemason, of Huntingdon, has been prospecting in Sinking Valley, Cambria County, and claims to have found valuable deposits of lead and silver. Mr. Zillius is endeavoring to lease the land upon which he made the discoveries, if successful will erect the necessary machinery and begin operations at once.

OVER FIVE THOUSAND NEW CASES.

MADRID, August 21.—The new cases of cholera reported for the last twenty-four hours from the various infected districts of Spain aggregate 5,018, and the deaths 1,072. During the twelve hours ended at midnight last night, fourteen new cases and nine deaths were reported in this city, and 117 new cases and 41 deaths in the province outside of the city.

Thriving Indian Schools.

WASHINGTON, August 20.—John H. Oberly, the new Superintendent of Indian Schools, has made a report to the Secretary of the Interior in relation to the condition of the Chilocco Indian Industrial School, located in the Indian Territory, and the Haskell Institute, at Lawrence, Kansas. At the Chilocco school there are 176 pupils and only 2 teachers, both young ladies. Superintendent Oberly says they are over-worked. The male pupils are taught farm work and the females general housework, sewing, cooking, etc. Superintendent Oberly speaks in the highest terms of the Haskell Institute, where, he says, the pupils are rapidly acquiring a knowledge of the English language, and are doing as well in their industrial and mechanical training as in their studies.

Patrick Henry Shoots Down Geo. Brown at Milton, Pa.

SUNBURY, Pa., August 23.—Patrick Henry shot George Brown in Milton on Saturday night. Both are colored.

Henry, who gave himself up and is in jail here, says there was an old grudge between Brown and himself and about 10 o'clock he met Brown with a white man on Main street. The white man was intoxicated and proposed a fight. Brown then stepped up to Henry and said, "Ill lick you," and at the same time put his hand into his hip pocket. Henry got away from them as soon as possible, and went home and got a revolver.

Some time afterward, he met the party on Elm street. Henry then drew his revolver and fired, the ball striking Brown in the left breast, inflicting a wound from which he will die.

Killed by Lightning.

TITUSVILLE, Pa. August 21.—A terrible storm passed over this city about one o'clock this afternoon. The lightning struck the residence of Samuel Chambers on the outskirts of the city, instantly killing Mrs. Chambers, and seriously burning a year old child. Her husband was at work not 300 feet distant, knew nothing of the catastrophe until he went to his supper, five hours later, when he found his wife lying lifeless on the floor and his creeping infant moaning pitiously.

Severe Storm.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 21.—Dispatches to the Press from various sections of the State report that the severest hail and lightning and wind storms known for years passed over to-day. At Danville hail stones an inch and a half in diameter fell, and lightning struck the house of the Montour Iron and Steel Co., causing some damage and rendering an old lady insensible.

At Catawissa fruit and other crops were greatly damaged by hail and at Milton the corn and tobacco were considerably injured, the storm being the heaviest known since 1874. At Shenandoah and other points in the vicinity the storm was very severe, hail covering the ground in many places to the depth of three inches.

HARRISBURGH'S DEMOCRATIC ORGAN SOLD.

From the Punxsutawney Tribune.

W. H. Hastings, who has for thirteen years presided over the destinies of the Punxsutawney Spirit and given it an enviable eminence among country newspapers, has purchased the Harrisburg Patriot and will remove thither the 1st of October. The Patriot is the leading Democratic daily in the State, barring those of Philadelphia and Pittsburg, and we predict for Mr. Hastings a brilliant career in metropolitan journalism. While we are sorry to loose Brother Hastings as a citizen, we are glad to see him do better. He has been a healthy but very fair, honorable and pleasant competitor of the Tribune and we hardly expect to behold his like again.

Trying Buzzard's Friends.

Several Members of the Welsh Mountain Band Sent to Jail.

Special Dispatch to the Phila. Times.

LANCASTER, August 20.—This is a busy week in the Criminal Court and sessions are held night and day. There are a number of Welsh Mountain cases in the list and a great many residents of that region, both white and colored, are in town. For the past two days the time of the court has been taken up with the trial of George Houck, a notorious mountaineer. He was convicted of breaking into Shiffer's jewelry store at Bowmansville and Hershey's store at Buyerstown and of receiving stolen goods. Besides, he pleaded guilty to several charges of larceny. He was sentenced to ten years and nine months in the Eastern Penitentiary. Houck is a young man and has always been an intimate friend of Abe Buzzard. It is pretty certain that Abe was a partner in the Shiffer burglary. Houck fled from this county when it became too hot for him and was captured in Lebanon. He denies being guilty of any of the crimes and says that the stolen goods found in his house were brought there by John Lippencott, another partner of Buzzard, now in jail. It is now believed that Houck was one of the worst men on the mountain. William Lansdale and William H. Watson, colored, members of the gang, were convicted of robbing smoke houses; the former got one and the latter two years.

The grand jury found a true bill against Richard McNally, one of the three mountaineers charged with robbing and shooting Edward Lenville.

Paying for Ward's Rascality.

GENERAL GRANT'S REQUEST THAT HIS RELATIVES BE REIMBURSED FOR THEIR LOSSES.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Potter Palmer was asked here to-day what the committee would be satisfied with as the total amount of the Grant monument fund and when the subscription list would probably be closed. He said he thought there had not been sufficient canvassing done and that a much larger amount could be raised than had originally been counted upon.

"We left Mount McGregor last Monday," said Mr. Palmer, "and at that time Mrs. Grant was feeling quite cheerful, or as cheerful as could possibly be expected. She likes to have a few intimate friends about her now and we would have been pleased to remain longer on the mountain, but circumstances would not permit. On the 11th of September Colonel Fred Grant and his wife will arrive in Chicago and remain at our home for a time. His little daughter, eleven years old, is already here with our family. The widow will start about the same time for Putnam county, in New York, where she will live for a time with the family of her son, who has a farm in that county."

Speaking of the financial affairs of the Grant family, Mr. Palmer said he had not talked with any of the members on the subject, but he was assured they could not be in a much worse shape. The General's book, though, promised a big return. The family would carry out General Grant's request to devote the first proceeds to paying relatives who lost money through Ward's rascality.

Woman's Province.

THE DUTIES OF THE GENTLER SEX—HOW BEST FULFILLED.

What a great task is assigned to woman. Its dignity can not be elevated. It is not her province to make laws, to lead armies, nor to be at the head of great enterprises, but to her is given the power to form those by whom the laws are made, to teach the leaders of mighty armies and the governors of vast empires. She is required to guard against having the slightest taint of bodily infirmity touch the frail creature whose moral, intellectual and physical being is derived from her. She must instil correct principles, inculcate right doctrines, and breathe into the soul of her offspring those pure sentiments which in time to come will be a part of themselves, and bless generations yet unborn. Yes, to woman is given the blessed privilege of aiding the sufferer in all the various stages of his existence. She smiles serenely at the christening, and weeps at the burial, while she soothes the bereaved heart. This is her province and duty. Yet how can she fulfill her mission unless possessed of a strong and healthy body? The preparation of Dr. S. B. Hartman, and known as PERUNA, is just the thing for persons suffering from a majority of the complaints incident to this climate. It is invaluable to women, and Mrs. J. W. Reynolds, of New Lisbon, Columbiana county, Ohio, is a noted example of what the medicine can do. She says she has suffered for years with congestion of the lungs, catarrh in the head, and was troubled with a bad cough. She had tried a number of physicians, but they all failed to cure her. She was induced to try PERUNA, and immediately a marked change took place. After using one bottle her cough ceased and in a short time her other ailments were cured. She is now completely restored to health, and gives all the credit to PERUNA. Mr. J. W. Reynolds, her husband, was a confirmed invalid. He could not sleep well, neither could he work. He used PERUNA, and as a result, was completely restored to his former vigor and strength. He says he now feels like a new man.

Mr. Bernhardt Seubs, St. Clair, St. Clair county, Mich., says: "I have thoroughly tried your PERUNA in the various diseases to which parents and a large family of children are ever liable, and I find it in every case to be just the thing needed. No family can honestly be without it."

Nancy Feterman, Cookport, Indiana County, Pa., says: "Gentlemen: Your valuable PERUNA is the best medicine I ever used."

WHAT IS DYSPEPSIA?

Among the many symptoms of Dyspepsia or indigestion the most prominent are: Variable appetite; faint, gnawing feeling at pit of the stomach, with unsatisfied craving for food; heartburn, feeling of weight and wind in the stomach, bad breath, bad taste in the mouth, low spirits, general prostration, headache, and constipation. There is no form of disease more prevalent than Dyspepsia, and none so peculiar to the high-living and rapid-eating American people. Alcohol and tobacco produce Dyspepsia; also, bad air, rapid eating, etc. BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS will cure the worst case, by regulating the bowels and toning up the digestive organs. Sold everywhere.

—The month of August has five Sundays and Mondays, the last Monday coming on the last day of the month. You will have to look over many almanacs of the past before you find such an odd count.

—The town clock was put in its place in the Evangelical church steeple on Saturday and is keeping regular time. The striking part will be affixed this week after a few necessary alterations have been made in the tower.

—Miss Annie Peters, of Lemont and Miss Mame Peters, of Williamsport, are at home at present on a short visit to their parents. Both are estimable young ladies whom their friends are always glad to have in their midst.

Do you wish a beautiful complexion? Then use Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It cleanses and purifies the blood, and thereby removes blotches and pimples from the skin, making it smooth and clear, and giving it a bright and healthy appearance.

CHRONIC LOOSENESS OF THE BOWELS results from imperfect digestion. The cause lies in the torpidity of the liver, and the cure is to take Simmons Regulator to aid digestion, stimulate the dull and sluggish liver and to regulate the bowels.

—St. Paul's Sunday School, east of Aaronsburg, expect to hold a basket picnic in Henry Fiedler's Grove, on the southern side of the turnpike, on Saturday, Sept. 12th. Several other schools have been invited to participate and a general invitation is extended to all to attend.

LOST.—$5.00 reward will be paid to the finder of a lady's gold ring, set with milk white cameo and pearls, which was lost on the campground or its vicinity on Sunday, Aug. 16th. Please return either to this office or to —The new local board of pension examiners organized with the election of Dr. Geo. R. Harris, President and Dr. Seibert, secretary and treasurer. Dr. Fisher, of Zion, is the third member of the board. The weekly meetings will be on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.—Daily News.

—The best medical authorities acknowledge the great value of Ayer's Cathartic Pills, and frequently prescribe their use with the utmost confidence, well knowing that they are the most effectual remedy ever devised for diseases caused by derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

—Harrisburg is just about completing its extensive preparations for the centennial to be held there on the 14, 15, 16, 17, and 18, of September. The railroads will furnish traveling accomodations at very low excursion rates. The State Capital will no doubt be crowded by thousands of visitors during that time.

—Through Mr. J. W. Stover we obtained the gratifying information that H. H. Tomlinson, a former popular merchant of this place, runs a grocery store in Ellsworth, Kansas, and does a very flourishing business. Mr. James Yarger, his brother-in-law, is a partner in the establishment. We wish the gentlemen lasting success.

—We learn that Geo. W. Long, of Northumberland Co., a brother of our townsman E. H. Long, is likely to become an applicant for the grammar school of this borough. We feel certain the gentleman would fill the bill in every respect, coming equipped with the best of recommendations from a foresaid county, where he has successfully taught for three successive terms.

—John F. Potter, Esq., of Bellefonte, was in town on last Thursday, accompanied by the Indian girl, Miss Hattie Mary, who will give an entertainment in the town hall next Friday evening. The young lady is very well educated and expects to render several fine songs and recitations. The proceeds of the entertainment are to go to the Indian Missons. See notice in another column.

—C. K. Sober, formerly of Irish Valley, is one of the prosperous citizens of Centre county. He has thirty-five men at work at his saw mill at Sober station and is getting out prop timber. He has shipped over one thousand tons of hemlock bark so far this season. He also has a saw mill at Reedsville, Mifflin county, that is running full time and doing a good business. It always does us good to hear of the prosperity of Northumberland county boys.—Northumberland County Democrat.

—Crime is increasing in this part of the State. On Monday morning at a very early hour the store room occupied by A. Creighton Harris was discovered to be on fire. Mr. Harris at once discovered that the persons who set fire to the store had first stolen $700, all in gold and silver, which he secreted under the counter. They had also taken his horse to enable them to make a speedy escape. The fire burned the store building and two dwelling houses with their entire contents.—Bellefonte Daily News.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE.—William Weaver and A. D. Weaver, executors of the estate of Frederick Weaver, deceased, late of Haines township, will sell the farm and mountainland of decedent, one mile east of Aaronsburg, on Friday, September 25th, instant.

IMPORTANT TO FARMERS.—J. H. Frank, west of Millheim, gives notice that he has for sale a superior quality of Wheat, which he calls "Farmers' friend," for seeding purposes. Farmers desiring some of this excellent wheat are requested to apply to him.

Hay Fever Cured by Cream Balm.

I HAVE BEEN a periodical sufferer from Hay Fever since the summer of 1879, and, until I used Ely's Cream Balm, I was never able to find any relief. I can say that Cream Balm cured me.—L. M. Georgia, Binghamton, N. Y. 32 4t —Mordicai Waddle, Esq., a venerable citizen of Spring township, residing near Boiling Springs, died on Thursday evening, Aug. 20th. In 1860 he was elected sheriff of Centre county on the independent county ticket. After the expiration of his term he retired to his place in Spring township, being in poor health up to the time of his death. He was over 73 years old.

MR. EDITOR:—On Saturday the 22nd inst., the people of Green Grove Church held a festival in the grove near the church, which was exceedingly well attended and liberally patronized. The net proceeds for the benefit of the Sabbath school amounted to a little over $52.00, for which they are going to get an organ for the school. "The Lord loveth a cheerful giver." *

—J. W. Stover and wife, who had been on a visit to friends in Kansas for several months, safely returned last Thursday and were gladly welcomed by their many friends here. They speak in glowing terms of the West and seem to be none the worse for the Kansas winds. The Land gave them a serenade in the evening, which was quite a treat to Mr. Stover, not having heard a band of music since his departure.

—THE Liver is the largest gland in the human organism and stands guard, as it were, at the portals of health. Properly performing its functions it eliminates all impurities and disease germs from the blood; failing in this misery and disease follows. An occasional dose of McDonald's Improved Liver Pills will insure regular, healthy and vigorous action of this great gland, and save doctors' bills and days of misery. —The Methodists had a very pleasant and successful Quarterly Meeting, from what we could see and hear. Rev. Lambert, of Pleasant Gap, ably filled the pulpit on Saturday evening, and Sunday morning and evening, preaching at each time to large congregations. The Lord's supper on Sunday forenoon was partaken of by a goodly number of communicants. The The children's meeting in the afternoon was addressed by Revs. Lambert, Heckman and Mountz and by A. R. Alexander. The singing throughout was excellent and the selections very tasty.

STOP! READ!—The Woodward String Band will hold a festival on Friday and Saturday, August 28th and 29th. Prof. Jacobs, the band's teacher, will be in attendance and the crowd will be entertained by some of the best Organ, Cornet and Violin solos. Ice Cream, Cakes, Lemonade and Confections will be served to the many patrons. Several large cakes will be chanced off. A cake walk will take place on Friday and Saturday evenings. A good time is anticipated and everbody is cordially invited to be present.

DEATH OF AN OLD MAN.—Christian Bame, an old and well-known citizen of Penn township, departed this life on Tuesday evening, about 9 o'clock, having come to the ripe age of 81 years. Mr. Bame was one of the first settlers of this valley. He was born on the old homestead about a mile south of Millheim, where he spent the whole of his life. He was one of those sturdy, hard-working farmers, of the old school, who truly earned their bread "by the sweat of their brow." Deceased leaves six children, three sons and three daughters, who are all married and with grown children, two of them residing in the West.

The funeral will take place on Friday forenoon.

ENTERTAINMENT.—Harriet Mary, an Indian girl, about 18 years of age, from the Indian territory, will give an entertainment on Friday evening, August 28th, in the town hall at Millheim consisting of Solos, Duets and Recitations. She sings very sweetly. She has been attending the Indian training school at Carlisle for the last four years.

Admission, 10 cents; Doors open at 7 o'clock.

The following paragraph taken from an account of an entertainment recently given in the Presbyterian chapel at Bellefonte my serve as a good recommendation of her performances:

Most interest centered about the performances of Miss Harriet Mary, the Indian girl. She rendered two solos and also sang in two duets, and her sweet voice and natural expression gave much satisfaction. She also read two pieces and here again her thorough naturalness enabled her to excel. Her selections were the "Poppy and Daisy" and "The Gray Swan."

IT SMELLED.—The power of imagination is thus illustrated by the Tyrone correspondent of the Altoona Times: On Saturday there was received from Harrisburg an empty coffin that was intended for Bellefonte, and no trains running on the Tyrone division on that day, the "box" had to remain here until yesterday morning. It was left standing on a wheelbarrow, covered with canvass to protect it from the weather. Several parties in passing lifted the canvas through curiosity to see what it was. When they saw it was a coffin they dropped the covering like a hot potato and imagined the corpse smelled badly. One of them actually walked off holding his nose and said that the stench terrible. Yesterday morning an express messenger got into the baggage car, where the empty casket had been placed for the purpose of forwarding it to its destination, and he immediately imagined that the corpse smelled so badly that it ought to be put on the front platform. When he was informed that the casket was empty, and was only being sent to Bellefonte to receive its precious freight, he would scarcely believe it, still imagining that he really smelled a "smole."

—NO ONE, better than the mothers, knows the amount of persuasion, threatenings and force required to induce the children to take, when necessary, a dose of the nauseating, sickening worm syrups; and no one more highly appreciates the virtues of McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powders. So pleasant and easy to take, so effective as a worm destroyer, the dose so small that the children never know they are taking a medicine. There is nothing in the shape of a vermifuge that can compare with them. Don't be deceived. Take no other. Money refunded to dissatisfied purchasers.

Not sleeping but tired, Mr. Editor.

Some of our farmers are seeding already.

Last Monday morning, while Mr. G. Huey was plowing near the barn on L. B. Stover's farm, east of this town, one of the horses slipped and fell, breaking one of his legs. The horse had to be killed. This makes the fourth horse Mr. Stover loses by death in the last year and a half.

Miss Annie Limbert, of Lock Haven, is visiting her grandfather, John Limbert, at this place,

Albert Klinefelter is in Millheim, painting with his father.

Mr. Housinger, of Penn Hall, is making the rounds in town with his threshing machine.

D. Klinefelter will have his mill in running order in a few days.

Mrs. Dr. Lee has returned from her visit to Tusseyville and Potters Mills.

Elias Miller has men at work cleaning the mud out of the mill dam. He expects to utilize it for manure on his farm.

Mrs. John Westner, of Philadelphia, who had been visiting her father-in-law, has returned to her home.

Tramps were quite numerous here last week. I would be in favor of penning them up and when the crowd is large enough put them to work on the iron water pipes. STILL.

TAKE SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

For all Diseases of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Spleen.

This purely vegetable preparation, now so celebrated as a Family Medicine, originated in the South in 1828. It acts gently on the Bowels and Kidneys and corrects the action of the Liver, and is, therefore, the best preparatory medicine, whatever the sickness may prove to be. In all common diseases it will, unassisted by any other medicine, effect a speedy cure.

The Regulator is safe to administer in any condition of the system, and under no circumstances can it do harm. It will invigorate like a glass of wine, but is no intoxicating beverage to lead to intemperance; will promote digestion, dissipate headache, and generally tone up the system. The dose is small, not unpleasant, and its virtues undoubted.

No loss of time, no interruption or stoppage of business while taking the Regulator.

Children complaining of Colic, Headache, or Sick Stomach, a teaspoonful or more will give relief.

If taken occasionally by patients exposed to MALARIA, will expel the poison and protect them from attack.

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.

I have been practicing medicine for twenty years, and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system. An Efficient Remedy

In all cases of Bronchial and Pulmonary Affections is AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. As such it is recognized and prescribed by the medical profession, and in many thousands of families, for the past forty years, it has been regarded as an invaluable household remedy. It is a preparation that only requires to be taken in very small quantities, and a few doses of it administered in the early stages of a cold or cough will effect a speedy cure, and may, very possibly, save life. There is no doubt whatever that

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Has preserved the lives of great numbers of persons, by arresting the development of Laryngitis, Bronchitis, Pneumonia, and Pulmonary Consumption, and by the cure of those dangerous maladies. It should be kept ready for use in every family where there are children, as it is a medicine far superior to all others in the treatment of Croup, the alleviation of Whooping Cough, and the cure of Colds and Influenza, ailments peculiarly incidental to childhood and youth. Promptitude in dealing with all diseases of this class is of the utmost importance. The loss of a single day may, in many cases, entail fatal consequences. Do not waste precious time in experimenting with medicines of doubtful efficacy, while the malady is constantly gaining a deeper hold, but take at once the speediest and most certain to cure,

A Benevolent Old Man.

Just as evening was closing in,a curley-headed little boy was standing on tiptoe on the doorstep of a house,trying to ring the bell. Just then a benevolent old man passed along. He paused, and with a kindly smile patted the boy on the head.

'My son, that door-bell is a little beyond your reach, isn't it ?'

'Yeth thir.'

'Ah,' continued the old gentleman, musingly,'it is a fit symbol of the striving of youth after the unattainable. How often in this world the things we desire is beyond our grasp! And when after continued effort we have secured the object of our ambition, how often we find that it is not worth what it cost ! My little man, I am taller than you. Shall I ring the bell for you ?'

'If you want to,' replied the boy,looking at him out of the corners of his roguish eyes.

With another fartherly smile, the old gentleman gave the bell-handle a vigorous pull. What was his amazement to see the boy jump from the steps and slide around the corner with the words:

'You'd better hurry now,or they will be after you !'

The boy had escarcaly disappeared when an upper window opened and the contents of a bowl of water descended on the old man with the words :

'Take that for your impudence !'

There is one man who thinks he will not help any more little boys pull their neighbors' door-bells—at least until after he has asked a few questions.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

A Novel Brakeman.

A series of interruptions occurred on a Western train. When leaving Syracuse a car laden with horses en route from the West to Saratoga was connected with the train. The train had scarcely got under way when the bell cord was jerked and the engineer warned to stop. The brakes were shut down and inquiry made along the train as to what was the matter. The trainmen all denied pulling the cord, and after an examination as to the case,without result the train got under way. Scarcely five hundred yards had been gone over,however, before the bell-cord was again pulled and the train brought to a stop. Another inquiry and examination along the train failed to reveal the cause, and another start was made, when, for a third time, the mysterious signal was sounded. This time another thorough investigation was made, which was equally fruitless. Once more the train again started up, and again the warning signal was sent to the engine. This time, when a stop was made, it was determined to ascertain whether any other than human agency was responsible for the signal, and the train was carefully gone over. When the car containing the horses was reached a jerking of the bell-rope was noticeable, and upon further examination it was found that one of the animals in the car, finding that the bell-rope was within reach,had amused himself by seizing it with his teeth and jerking it to and fro.

Surface Indications

What a miner would very properly term "surface indications" of what is beneath, are the Pimples, Stics, Sore Eyes, Boils, and Cutaneous Eruptions with which people are annoyed in spring and early summer. The effete matter accumulated during the winter months, now makes its presence felt, through Nature's endeavors to expel it from the system. While it remains, it is a poison that festers in the blood and may develop into Scrofula. This condition causes derangement of the digestive and assimilatory organs, with a feeling of enervation, languor, and weariness—often lightly spoken of as "only spring fever." These are evidences that Nature is not able, unaided, to throw off the corrupt atoms which weaken the vital forces. To regain health, Nature must be aided by a thorough blood-purifying medicine; and nothing else is so effective as which is sufficiently powerful to expel from the system even the taint of Hereditary Scrofula.

The medical profession indorse AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, and many attestations of the cures effected by it come from all parts of the world. It is, in the language of the Hon. Francis Jewett, ex-State Senator of Massachusetts and ex-Mayor of Lowell, "the only preparation that does real, lasting good."

QUAKER

Is the Best

TABLE SAUCE.

Thousands of articles are now manufactured that in former years had to be imported, paying high import duty as it is now being done on Lea & Perrins table sauce ; the QUAKER TABLE SAUCE takes its place ; it has been pronounced by competent judges just as good and even better. The QUAKER SAUCE has Slowly but surely gained great importance and is replacing the very best imported sauce on the shelf of the grocer, the tables of the restaurant and the tables of the rich and poor men, greatly prized and relished by all on account of its piquancy, aroma, taste, strength and pureness. The inventor has by years of study of the secret virtues contained in the aromatic spices of the Indies and China, such as mace, nutmeg, cinnamon, genuine Jamaica ginger, and peppers and buds of trees unknown to most men, and by long practice succeeded to combine their extracts in such a liquid form as we now find it, of agreeable taste, and so invigorating as to be taken in place of stomach bitters. By manufacturing this sauce here, heavy import duties and freights are saved, and it is sold at a lower figure to the dealer, who making a better profit on Quaker Sauce can sell it to the consumer cheaper than the very best imported article hardly equaling ours. If your grocer does not keep it, write us for prices, etc. Sold in bottles or by the gallon.
